

Featured on houzz

10 Entryways People Are Loving Right Now

Rich palettes, warm woods and interesting textures mark many of the recent entry photos Houzz users saved most

Gwendolyn Purdom July 22, 2019

Houzz Editorial Staff. Lover of architecture, history, dogs, the Chicago Cubs, crowded bookshelves, and homes with a story. Former editor at Preservation mag and Culturess.com.

This Trending Now story features a selection of the most-saved entry photos uploaded to Houzz since April 1, 2019.

The entry photos Houzz users gravitated toward most in the last three months blossom with pops of saturated color and warm, natural materials and finishes. Whether it was a statement-making emerald-colored barn door or a set of woven storage baskets in a mudroom, these touches convey a sophisticated yet lived-in atmosphere as soon as one steps into the home. Here are some details behind a selection of some of the most popular recent entry designs.

Coastal Texture

Coastal-inspired decor drove the design for this home in Laguna Beach, California. Designer Courtney Thomas and her team played up beachy texture and nautical tones in the entry, including a Dutch door painted a glossy navy (Novelty Navy by Dunn-Edwards).

From another angle in the same entry, an eye-catching striped table and a cute canine welcoming committee keep things friendly.